New Tension On Gaza Strip

U.N. Truce
Chief Meets
With Premier

JERUSALEM, April 8 — Amid heightening tension the U.N. Palestine truce chief conferred with Premier David Ben-Gurion today on how to halt new bloodshed on the Egyptian-Gaza frontier.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said Ben-Gurion told Maj. Gen. Edson L. M. Burns that Israel must reserve the right to take what action it deems best if Egypt fails to come up with a guarantee to refrain from "hostile acts."

Israel earlier ordered secret security measures to cope with what it described as Arab commando raids in which 10 or more night attacks were made deep in Israeli territory.

A report from U.N. truce headquarters said preliminary investigation of the raids confirmed one of four deaths reported by the Israelis. Wounded were being questioned as the inquiry continued.

An Israeli spokesman said there were two more attacks by infiltrators tonight, but they appeared on a much smaller scale. A child was reported wounded by a grenade in a village in southern Israel. A cyclist was wounded in the Samarian hills near the Jordan border.

Burns had been ordered by U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to stay at his Jerusalem post because of the outbreaks in the Gaza area on the Egyptian-Israeli border. Burns had been slated to fly to Rome for a conference on Hammarskjold's Middle East peace mission.

Quote

Ben-Gurion was quoted as telling Burns that "Israel must reserve to herself freedom of action if no unequivocal and unreserved assurance is obtained from the Egyptian government that it would refrain from all hostile acts."

A U.N. announcement said Burns asked for the interview with Ben-Gurion and discussed with him "the means of preventing further deterioration of the situation along the demarcation line surrounding the Gaza Strip, and how to re-establish security in the area."

From Amman came word of an Israeli-Arab clash on another sector. A Jordan announcement said an Israeli patrol that penetrated six miles inside Jordan territory near Wadi Mousa clashed with Jordan home guards. Two Israelis and two Jordanians were killed, the announcement said.

Israeli sources gave these reports of action during the night on the explosive Gaza sector:

One raiding band attacked near Migdal Ashkelon, nine miles north of the Gaza Strip and 25 miles south of Tel Aviv.

Camb Area
Israeli military forces combed the area today trying to intercept the bands, many of which were believed still to be roaming the countryside.

Four Israelis were killed and 15 wounded in the series of attacks by the commandos, called fedayeen. Most of them are recruited from Palestine Arabs who live in refugee camps in the Egyptian-held Gaza Strip. The Israelis charge they have been organized in "suicide squads" and trained in sabotage tactics.

Most of the attacks took place within 15 miles north and east of the northern tip of the Gaza Strip.

However, the Gaza Strip border itself, after three days of intermittent firing, was reported quiet today.

Sunday School
Week' Opens

NEW YORK, April 8 — "Sunday School — The Guide to a Better World" is the theme for the week-long observance of National Sunday School Week, starting tomorrow.

It is sponsored by an interfaith group, the Laymen's National Committee, Inc. The program aims to increase Sunday school attendance.

Senate Investigators Exploring New Charges
Of 'Intricate' Craft Deals In Contract Awards

WASHINGTON, April 8 — Senate investigators said today they are exploring new charges that "intricate" craft deals marked the awarding of contracts for millions of dollars' worth of military uniforms.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) announced it will start public hearings Tuesday on allegations about contracts awarded to some garment firms in southern New Jersey, and New York City in 1951, 1952 and 1953.

Harriman Pledges To Fight
Mob Violence In Wake Of Riesel Acid-Throwing Case

NEW YORK, April 8 — Gov. Averell Harriman paid a bedside visit to labor columnist Victor Riesel today and expressed determination to rid the state of mob violence.

Riesel, who had acid dashed in his face early Thursday, was able to open his eyes himself today for the first time since entering the hospital. He said he was able to see.

Harriman, who spent about five minutes in the room, said he had met Riesel several times before and admired him as "a man of great courage and independence."

Interest

The governor said he came to "express the interest of all the people of the state in his early recovery and the determination of the city to put an end to mob activities and end any intimidation of free speech."

Riesel, the governor said, "seemed very much reassured that the people of the state are determined to see that this sort of thing doesn't happen again."

Doctors had feared that the sulphuric acid hurled by the assailant might have damaged Riesel's eye muscles beyond repair. He was previously unable to open his eyes without help from a doctor.

The full extent of the injury still isn't known.

Johnson Throws Cold Water
On Southern Democratic Move

WASHINGTON, April 8 — Southern Democrats searching for a presidential candidate of their own appeared to be up a blind alley today with the reported refusal of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas to become a sectional contender for the nomination.

Johnson, the Senate majority leader, is expected to tell Texas Democrats Tuesday he is willing to accept "favorite son" designation from that state.

But associates said he has made it clear to boosters in other states that he does not want to become the leader of any group that might split the Democratic convention over racial integration and other civil rights issues.

Johnson was represented by friends as believing the Democrats should take a moderate course on civil rights in their platform and nominate a candidate with middle-of-the-road views. He is reported deeply anxious to avoid any Southern walkout at the party's August convention in Chicago.

Chestnuthill High Students Win Honors At FFA Banquet

BRODHEADSVILLE — More than 100 persons attended the annual Future Farmers and Future Homemakers of America chapter dinner meeting Friday night at 7:30 at Chestnuthill School here.

Grete Ewe was mistress of ceremonies. Rev. John Bergstresser gave the invocation. John C. Mills, school principal, gave a brief address of welcome to those attending.

Future Homemaker chapter members modeled dresses they had made during the year in a "Fashions Around the Clock" show during the program. A discussion of the FFA chapter program was given by Kent Barney, LeRoy Bonser, Thomas Schultz and William Altemose.

Awards

Awards were presented to several students by Wilmer B. Frisbie, vocational agriculture adviser for Monroe County. Among those receiving awards were the following:

Kent Barney for public speaking; Eugene Mackes, for farm mechanics achievement; Mervin Hawk for farm electrification; William Altemose as dairy farmer and chapter star farmer for the year.

Frisbie also presented a national chapter award to the local president, Clair Altemose for meeting the requirements for the standard chapter award.

A check in the amount of $161.20 was presented by Frisbie to Charles Hoffman for having met all the requirements for the American Farmer Degree. The money comes from the National FFA Foundation. It is distributed, in pro-rated amounts to all boys who qualified but did not receive the national degree because of a rule that only one degree may be given to each 1,000 boys in membership at the time.

Teachers at Chestnuthill who are in charge of vocational agriculture and homemaking classes are Mrs. Jeanette Mitchell, homemaking, and Frank Varney, agriculture.

An illustrated talk on Iran was given by George Derr, supervisor of vocational agriculture in Susquehanna County.

Art Group To Hold Meeting

POCONO PINES — Pocono Mountains Democratic Club met recently at the Hoffman House. There was a large attendance.

Delegates were appointed to meet with delegates from the two other clubs of the county to form an advisory board to meet from time to time in Stroudsburg.

Paul Dellaria, delegate to the national convention was introduced, and he asked the members to work together in harmony, and to try for a 100 per cent registration of voters.

Short Talk

The president of the East Stroudsburg club, Carl Woolever, gave a short talk, which also stressed the importance of a large registration.

Floyd Butz, register and recorder of Monroe County, spoke on the Primary Election, and the reasons why a larger number of voters than usual should go to the polls.

County Commissioner John Le-

soine spoke briefly concerning the transfer of $15,000 from another fund to the general fund in order to meet the payroll, stating that amount will last a month and then it will be necessary to borrow.

Sheriff Jacob Altemose gave an instructive talk, stressing registration, and announced that he has rented a hall in Stroudsburg, which will enable him to carry out the duties of county chairman of the Democratic Party.

The three clubs of the county will have a joint meeting in the near future. The main speaker will be Congressman Francis Walker, D-Easton.

The next meeting of the club will be on May 2, the place to be announced.

17,524 Persons Register To Vote In Monroe County Primary

Democrats Outnumber Republicans

ALMOST 1,000 more Monroe County residents were enrolled as voters last month, compared to the same month a year ago.

Figures released by the county commissioners office showed a total 17,524 persons were enrolled on March 5, 1956. This compares with 16,588 last March 26.

Last month, a total 10,238 Democrats were registered, compared to 7,045 Republicans, the figures disclosed. This gives the Democrats a 3,193 edge over their political rivals.

Statistics

Only in Jackson and Paradise Townships, Mount Pocono and the Fifth Ward of Stroudsburg does the GOP have more voters enrolled, according to these statistics. Both parties have an equal number registered in the Mount Pocono-Paradise area and the southern district of Stroud Township.

Last March 5, there were also 178 non-partisans, 58 independents, four Prohibitionists and one Progressive registered.

Meanwhile, the commissioners announced they have mailed five military ballots to Monroe County residents serving in the Armed Forces.

Here is a breakdown of the enrollment of the two major parties:

Four Hurt In Accident

FERN RIDGE—Four Easton residents suffered minor injuries Saturday night when their car went out of control and crashed into a utility pole on Route 115 two miles north of here.

Treatment

Treated by Dr. James Kitchen for various cuts and bruises were the driver, Leonard S. Buscemi, 27; Mrs. Vita Torcivia, 37; her daughter, Sarah, 10, and David Fink, 17.

About $300 damage was caused when the car hit the pole after Buscemi lost control of the vehicle in a blinding snowstorm, troopers said.

'Checkup, Check' Aid In Cancer Fight

THERE ARE two ways to fight cancer right now, today.

Mrs. Eleanor Regan, public relations director for the 1956 Cancer Crusade, last night listed them as: "... a checkup and a check."

With a checkup — a good physical examination by your own doctor — you will help yourself and your family, Mrs. Regan said. With a check — money for research and for local aid to cancer victims — you will help others in your own community and in the nation.

"In early stages a cancer victim is generally warned by certain 'danger signals', Mrs. Regan went on. "Every man and woman owes it to himself to learn what those danger signals are."

The "seven danger signals" listed by the American Cancer Society's Monroe County Unit are the following:

Any sore that does not heal.

A lump, or thickening, in the breast or elsewhere in the body.

Any unusual bleeding or discharge from a body opening or organ.

Any "change" in a wart or a mole.

Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.

Persistent hoarseness or cough.

Any change in normal bowel habits.

"The presence of any one of these danger signals may not necessarily mean cancer, of course," Mrs. Regan said. "But it must always mean a visit to your doctor and a thorough checkup. Only a doctor can tell whether the symptom means cancer."

"This month each person in Monroe County can help fight cancer on two all-important fronts — by doing his best to make sure he stops cancer in himself or those around him through thorough periodic checkups — and by writing a check to help medical science conquer the disease," Mrs. Regan said.

on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 17 and 18.

Ribbon cutting ceremony, attended by officials of the NPRA and the PMVB, will be held at the exhibition hall at 1 p.m.

This marks the official opening of the show, and the exhibits will remain open until 10 p.m. On Wednesday the hours will be 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Preceding the ribbon cutting ceremony there will be a luncheon at noon at the Penn-Stroud.

Over 100

There will be over 100 exhibits and displays, featuring the latest developments in the restaurant and hotel fields. In addition, two innovations will make the "Lucky Seven" show more unique and beneficial than any show held to date, in this area. Innovation number one is: "The New Idea Center." This center will display the very newest items available to the restaurant and hotel industry. Innovation number two is: "The Decorator's Corner."

Dutch Trees Arrive In New York

EAST STROUDSBURG'S consignment of young trees, a gift from the Dutch government, will arrive in New York today, it was learned over the weekend.

Jesse S. Flory, East Stroudsburg Burgess, revealed last night that the Dutch government will see that the trees are delivered to East Stroudsburg.

Flory pointed out that the trees will be very small plants and will be planted at LaBar's Rhododendron Nursery for one year. After a year they will be planted at East Stroudsburg Playground.

Offer

The Dutch government offered the trees to East Stroudsburg in an effort to aid in the rebuilding of the playground, which was ruined by last August's flood.

Flory didn't reveal the number of trees to be assigned to East Stroudsburg.

A total of 10,000 trees will arrive aboard the liner Noordam. They in turn will be divided between Hartford, Conn.; Southbridge, Mass.; Trenton, Ellenville, N. Y., and Woonsocket, R. I., as well as East Stroudsburg.

The gift is a gesture of gratitude for aid given by Americans to the Dutch after the Netherlands was hit by disastrous floods in 1953.

Inspection Date Nears

FINAL preparations for official inspection are now being made by Company G, 109th Infantry.

All men in the company who need articles of clothing or equipment prior to the inspection, which is slated for Wednesday night, are asked to pick up supplies tonight or Tuesday night at company headquarters.

Men Needed

Men are also needed to help get equipment ready for the inspection, according to 1st Sgt. Vincent Marek. Men who are able to help out are asked to report to the company tonight or tomorrow, Marek said.

Continuing

Plans for the giant "Tobyhanna Days" display to be set up in East Stroudsburg by the Signal Depot will be placed in the windows of The Famous Department Store at 33 Crystal St.

Location of the display had previously been reported as another store. The Famous Department Store is owned and managed by Samuel Ellsweig and space for the display has been donated by the manager of the store.

Wednesday

Wednesday's official inspection is slated to begin at 7 p.m. in Wayne gymnasium State Teachers College, the temporary armory being used by Company G.

Milford Police Searching For Bearded Hermit

Great Stride Taken In Moving Ahead To Organize Flood Control Council

Further progress toward flood control in the Delaware River Valley, including its network of tributaries, was made at last Friday night's area meeting in Stroudsburg.

After a general discussion that pointed up the need for a parent body to pressure for flood protection and water resources development, formal action was taken to proceed with plans for organizing a Upper Delaware Valley Flood Control Council.

A committee was named from Monroe County to confer with similar groups from other counties of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York bordering on the river, to set up the parent organization.

Judging by the interest in flood control already shown in this and other counties, formation of the council can be expected to move rapidly so that it will be able to function within a few weeks.

Once it is established, the council will be in a position to cooperate with a similar council in the Lower Delaware Valley in pressing for necessary legislation and appropriations to give the entire river valley the recognition and protection it should have.

Farm Surplus Picture Won't Brighten If Higher Production Is Encouraged

Probably most of us thought the farm surplus had been so bad it couldn't get worse.

Alas, it not only can get worse, but undoubtedly will if we continue our present system of price supports and production controls.

Twice as bad, in fact, according to a National Planning Assn. estimate of production and consumption of farm products in 1965.

The NPA experts figure consumption cannot catch up with farm production because mechanization and other scientific advancements in farming will continue to increase the yields per acre. This increase will be so much that by 1965 farm production will be 21 per cent higher than now even if livestock numbers and farming acres remain the same.

On this basis, they say, 1965 surpluses

Foreign Aid Siphons Off National Wealth Without Obligation On Part Of Recipients

It used to be that when a man or a business or a nation borrowed money, an obligation was undertaken. Perhaps it was a 19th Century bourgeois concept of life, but those who possessed even a modicum of honor tried to pay their debts. They would not accept gifts or charity or what is, these days, euphemistically called aid.

So I note a broadcast from Cairo, which I take to be a statement by Sudan, a new nation, recently recognized as such. The statement starts out this way:

"Lately the press have dealt with the question of the Russian offer of technical and material aid through a long-term loan. It was unanimously agreed that the aid should be accepted if it does not give rise to any obligations, that it should be rejected if it encroaches on our independence and sovereignty in any manner, and that this should be our attitude toward all states and all camps. We said in this respect that we should pause a while before accepting the Soviet aid, not because we favor Russia's enemies but because we are in a position demanding deliberation in our relations and contacts with all states."

Pretty good for an upstart, just come to life! All these little countries feel that they are in a position to blackmail the United States because they assume that the United States must give away a part of its wealth or suffer from a violent inflation and because they are certain that if Harold Stassen can be made to believe that the Russians are prepared to give them aid, he will excite everyone in Washington to double the ante.

And so our wealth is being siphoned off, our national debt increased, our taxes remain high, the cost of government burdensome. And it will make very little difference whether Republicans or Democrats are in control of government: the give-away is a program of national policy and despite the absolute evidence that it is impossible to buy friendship with money, we continue a procedure that bought the United States an enemy after Harry Hopkins and Franklin D. Roosevelt let Stalin have $11,000,000,000 of our money.

Harry Hopkins, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Joe Stalin are dead and cannot testify before a Congressional committee as to whether it was all a bad mistake, but one would imagine that after all these years the American people would know that friendship cannot be bought by bribery. The policy of bribery and dumping which first went under the name of the Marshall Plan has not been politically successful in a single country, not even in Great Britain which is becoming increasingly dubious as to the costs to our following American leadership.

The British gave up Suez under American pressure as the Dutch gave up the Dutch East Indies under American pressure. Precisely who gained by these acts of abnegation? Certainly not Great Britain or the Netherlands and I wonder very much whether any real advantage has come to the people of Egypt or Indonesia who have been plagued by disorder where once there was order.

It is impossible to look a century ahead, but we can today see very little but disorder in the world as empires break up and the small nations that take their place do not know how to govern themselves. Nehru and Nasser are interesting cases in point: They negotiate internationally by impudence and the world is so astonished by their gall that nobody knows what to do but to plead with them to please be good boys. Kitchener would have known what to do, but then he did not belong to a tired generation.

It is precisely why should any country wish to send money or goods to Sudan with no strings attached. I do not know, except that it has become a habit with the United States to siphon off parts of its wealth each year for such purposes and then to tax its own citizens to their disadvantage. Now Soviet Russia is aping the United States in this disagreeable habit.

The Sudan statement goes further:

Imaginary Conversations
Mr. Khrushchev Hears a Voice From the Tomo.

Joe.—Hey! What are you doing to me?

Khrushchev.—Who's speaking? The voice is familiar but I don't recognize the whirling body. How do I know you're Joe?

Joe.—Considering the picture you are presenting of me, the question is HOW DO I KNOW I'M JOE!!

Khrushchev.—Can't you take a joke?

Joe.—It's the first time I noticed you and the boys trying to enter the amusement business. You're accusing me of every dirty deed on the calendar. Will you please explain to me?

Khrushchev.—Not until I check on this mausoleum and make sure it's well locked.

Joe.—It might be all right to change my picture a little, but why do you have to turn the portrait to the wall? You have even removed busts of me. For the first time I appreciate the English poem that says, "Perhaps it was right to dissemble your love, but why did you kick him downstairs?"

Khrushchev.—It's all for the good of Mother Russia.

Joe.—To help Mother Russia it isn't necessary to destroy Popper Joe. If I was such a baddie why did you go along with me in purge after purge?

Khrushchev.—We wanted to keep the purges where we could see 'em in time to duck.

Joe.—It's a good thing I didn't suspect you.

Khrushchev.—You're telling me!!

Robert S. Allen Reports

Russia To Demand Partial Control Over Dardanelles

Washington, April 9 — Russia is priming a new bombshell in the already surcharged Middle East.

It's a demand for direct participation in the control of the Turkish Straits (Dardanelles), the gateway between the landlocked Black Sea and the Mediterranean and oil-rich Middle East, where the Soviet is pursuing increasingly sinister and war-breeding policies.

Under the 1936 Montreux Convention Turkey has exclusive control over these Straits. This treaty expires in November. The Kremlin has already begun tightening the screws to gain domination of this crucial waterway.

Secretary Dulles has received warnings of this from Turkey, Britain and France.

He has been informed the Reds are preparing to raise this explosive issue on two propitious occasions next month: (1) When Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Khrushchev visit England; and (2) when Premier Molotov and Foreign Minister Pineau go to Moscow.

Reason for these moves is that Britain and France are two of the nine signatories of the Montreux Convention.

Apparently Prime Minister Eden and Molotov are going to be propositioned on some kind of scheme concerning the Turkish Straits, which Russia has covetted since old czarist times.

The Montreux treaty, which was negotiated by the League of Nations, designates France to receive demands for revision and to arrange for their consideration.

It is taken for granted the Soviet rulers, like their imperial predecessors, will contend these Straits are crucial to Russian security. That's nothing new. It's the traditional Russian argument. The big question is what they will propose to do about it, and how.

Possible clue on that is the list of the other signers of the Montreux pact. They are Belgium, Japan, Greece, Yugoslavia and Rumania.

Rumania is an abject Moscow Satellite; Communist Yugoslavia, a former satellite, is resuming ever-closer ties with the Soviet; and Greece, incensed at Britain over Cyprus, recently came within an ace of electing a Red Regime.

Over a barrel — Secretary Dulles is slating first-hand discussion of this latest Kremlin machination at the Big Three foreign ministers' conference in Paris in May.

President Eisenhower brought up the subject at his recent White Sulphur Springs meeting with President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines and Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

At that time, the late St. Laurent demanded this on the basis of claims he asserted were won by Russia at the Yalta and Potsdam conferences.

President Truman flatly rebuffed that Western defense lines were extended to include Turkey, and the U.S. embarked on a large-scale program to build up Turkish military strength.

Now, Stalin's successors are making attractive trade and other offers to Turkey, coupled with assurances that Russian participation in control of the Straits would in no way impair Turkey's sovereignty and security. That is the new line and directly opposite Stalin's hard-boiled tactics.

The U.S. has been informed by Turkey that it wants this country to participate in the negotiations on the expiring Montreux Convention.

How the Kremlin reacts to that remains to be seen.

Thieves swiped $125 worth of guests' clothes during a ball thrown by an Iowa sheriff. Meanwhile, burglars swiped valuable cuff links from a Chicago police captain's home. An old timer, "Grandpappy Jenkins, is one who can remember when crooks picked on only us ordinary folk.

Laurent. He told them the U.S. is determined to vigorously support Turkey's retention of complete control of these Straits.

The Mexican and Canadian leaders promised to study the President's request for backing on this policy.

Their help may become urgent if Russia raises the Straits issue in the UN.

Authoritative diplomatic sources report that's what the Kremlin is planning. In the UN, the Reds are counting on the backing of the Arab bloc, which they are now arming and assiduously wooing with trade and local deals, plus the satellites which are UN members, India, Yugoslavia, and possibly disgruntled Greece.

The Soviet's reputed plan is that the League of Nations Convention will be junked, and an entirely new UN treaty be substituted setting up a Straits control by the countries bordering on the Black Sea.

They are Russia, satellite Rumania, satellite Bulgaria, and Turkey—a three to one Kremlin majority.

The U.S. is firmly against the Montreux pact being considered by the UN. The position is taken that the treaty is outside the scope of the UN, and should be dealt with only by countries with a direct interest in the Straits.

The U.S. emphatically considers itself in that category on three counts: (1) Its security pacts with Turkey, Greece, Iran and other key Mediterranean countries; (2) its membership in the NATO alliance; and (3) the so-called Truman Doctrine, that was a direct outgrowth of Russia's 1946 attempt to force Turkey to give up its exclusive control of the Straits.

At that time, the late St. Laurent demanded this on the basis of claims he asserted were won by Russia at the Yalta and Potsdam conferences.

President Truman flatly rebuffed that Western defense lines were extended to include Turkey, and the U.S. embarked on a large-scale program to build up Turkish military strength.

Now, Stalin's successors are making attractive trade and other offers to Turkey, coupled with assurances that Russian participation in control of the Straits would in no way impair Turkey's sovereignty and security. That is the new line and directly opposite Stalin's hard-boiled tactics.

The U.S. has been informed by Turkey that it wants this country to participate in the negotiations on the expiring Montreux Convention.

Over the Hula

Kula Dance Easy To Understand

By Jim Riley

The Hula is a down-to-earth dance. This knowledge was imparted to me by Mrs. Jack Shinn, who is technical director of a local group which has specialized in the true Hawaiian in recent months.

Nothing confusing about this rhythmic exercise. These girls, 17 in number who have been going through the paces in recent months, claim that they have never felt better and can't remember when they're ever enjoyed a dance as they do the import from the Pacific Isle.

The women claim that they feel better physically and mentally and have won a new spring in their step through this dance. I guess maybe it's the lack of confusion that helps.

Tomorrow night the Hawaiian group will present a program at the Senior Women's Club Card "Luau." For you folks that aren't up to this Hawaiian lingo, that "Luau" word means "party." The "Luau" will be held at the home of Mrs. Gerald P. O'Neill.

Now as stated above the Hula dance is a simple thing, completely free of confusion. Anyone can follow the program, even without a score card—at least that is what I've been told.

But, my advice is don't arrive late for any program in which this troupe performs, as one of the dances is entitled "Aloha."

At that time, the late St. Laurent demanded this on the basis of claims he asserted were won by Russia at the Yalta and Potsdam conferences.

President Truman flatly rebuffed that Western defense lines were extended to include Turkey, and the U.S. embarked on a large-scale program to build up Turkish military strength.

Now, Stalin's successors are making attractive trade and other offers to Turkey, coupled with assurances that Russian participation in control of the Straits would in no way impair Turkey's sovereignty and security. That is the new line and directly opposite Stalin's hard-boiled tactics.

The U.S. has been informed by Turkey that it wants this country to participate in the negotiations on the expiring Montreux Convention.

Over the Hula

at any of the dances might figure that the affair is over if the "Aloha" is the first number, while others who have failed to check the time might think they are right on the ball if the final number is the "Aloha".

Don't laugh. Some of the most prominent men in our Service Clubs have shown an interest and any day we may find some of them in costume going through the paces at one of the practice sessions held at the home of Mrs. Byrd McDowell.

This Hula stuff reportedly grows on one. Mrs. Shinn found herself greeting friends the other day with a wave of the hand, such as one would use during the of Hula dancing has rolled over "Aloha." Might say that a wave of the area and according to reports the number is bound to increase in future weeks.

"Aloha" to you all. For now it might say goodbye, but tomorrow morning it will mean hello. I'll have my shoes on by then, as good Hula dancers go through their paces in bare feet.

Folk Music By Children At Club Tues.

The Music Study Club of the Stroudsburg will feature "Singing and Dancing Through North America" at their meeting on Tuesday night as interpreted by 40 children from the fourth and fifth grades of the East Stroudsburg schools.

The meeting will be held at 7:45 at the Stroud Community House and has been planned by the co-chairmen, Mrs. Howard DeNike and Miss Margaret Cramer. The children will sing tunes from the time of the New England colonies to the present, including music of the Southern mountains as well as cowboy lyrics and Indian music. They will also present several folk dances.

A large attendance is expected for the meeting.

Parents Group Meets Tonight At St. Matthew's

St. Matthew's Parents Association will meet tonight at 8 p.m. at the parochial school auditorium. Miss Marie Brown will be the speaker and her topic will be "Child Development".

There will be important business transacted. Following the program refreshments will be served by Mrs. Jack Boushell and Mrs. George Hack.

High Honors At U Of P For Vilja Kreek

Miss Vilja Kreek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf L. Kreek of 154 North Courtland Street, East Stroudsburg, was named to the High Honor List of Dean G. E. Miller of the College for Women of The University of Pennsylvania. In meriting this high honor she achieved an academic rating of 4.8 in her first semester.

She is a student in the Pre-Med Course and her ultimate goal is a Doctor of Medicine Degree from Penn. Miss Kreek was valedictorian of last year's graduating class at East Stroudsburg High School. There are more than 250 women in her class at Penn and Miss Kreek was one of a select few to achieve this high scholastic rating in the first semester.

She spent the mid-semester week-end with her parents in East Stroudsburg. Vilja is a native Estonian and was recently naturalized as an American citizen with her parents. Her Philadelphia address is Sergeant Hall, Univ. of Penn., 34th and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia 4, Pa.

ITU Auxiliary Cancer Program

Dingman's Ferry — A dress alteration meeting was held on Tuesday, by the Dingman's Ferry Home Economics Group. Miss Hilda Haskell, Pike County Home Economist, gave advice and assisted several of the women with dress alterations, and explained various ways of achieving the desired results with a minimum of effort. The hostesses, Mrs. Harry Snyder and Miss Roslyn Lindauer, served "Spring Bonnet" and "Easter Bunny" cakes to the following guests: Mrs. Carl Schneider, Mrs. Rudolph Ludwig, Mrs. Paul Schuepp, Mrs. Theodore Weber, Mrs. Dorothy Whinn, Miss Winifred Hagerty, Mrs. Sitter, Miss Hilda Haskell and Mrs. Giles Irvine.

The next meeting of this group will be held on Tuesday, April 17th, at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ludwig on Route 209. This will be the final meeting for the season and will be a luncheon to which several women are bringing casseroles, salads, and breads. Mrs. Ludwig and her mother, Mrs. Arnt, will serve dessert and coffee. After lunch, the group will make favors in preparation for the annual Homemaker's Dinner Meeting which this year is to be held on Tuesday, May 1, at the Greeley Community House. The speaker at this dinner will be Miss Bonnie Dale, Home Furnishings Specialist from Penn State University.

Elder Assumes Gap Pulpit On Short Notice

Delaware Water Gap — The Sunday morning worship service at the Delaware Water Gap Methodist Church moved along right on schedule, despite the fact that its pastor had been unexpectedly storm-bound. Francis Drake, one of the ruling elders, stepped into the breach when it was realized after Sunday school that the Rev. Luther Markin would not be there.

Drake based his meditations on the theme which had been studied by the adult classes of the Sunday school, "The Ascension of Christ, the Promise of His Second Coming, and the Power of the Holy Spirit".

The choir, although small in number because of vacations and illnesses, sang an anthem, with Mrs. Jean Ann Wolbert as organist in place of Mrs. Paul Maxwell who is in Florida.

Mrs. Markin, wife of the pastor, underwent surgery in Philadelphia this week, and he had stayed at her bedside until late Saturday night. Attempting the journey home, he had been unable to make it because of the storm. Alex Bensinger, a member of the board of elders, was authorized to call him following the devotional service, using the theme "Kindness" and reading the story of the Good Samaritan with a commentary. Special prayer was offered for Mrs. Luther Markin, wife of the pastor, who is in a Philadelphia hospital.

The flower committee reported 40 cards mailed out during the month; and two Easter lilies given. Mrs. Drake, the president, has met with the trustees to ask for changes in the plumbing at the manse. She reported that group willing to have the work done.

The ways and means committee turned in a report for the individual bake project, in charge of Mrs. Herbert Baker, and more funds will be reported at the next meeting. The committee, with Mrs. Guyton Kempster as chairman, talked over plans for the spring festival of the W.C.T.U. which will be held on April 28th.

Marine Paint Department Introduced By Pocono Center

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles by professional writers to be presented on THE DAILY RECORD Business Review Page. Each will be written by one of the business representatives starting with discuss new products and services in the market and ways in which local businesses can serve you, the customer, more fully.

By Martin Vogt
Mgr. Pocono Paint-Up Center

THIS COLUMNIST business is something new for me. "Pounding out a column on a typewriter," as the saying goes, is an area where I've had little experience.

But there is an area where I've enjoyed considerable experience: the paint business. And there's something new in the paint business at Pocono Paint-Up Center. I'd like to tell you about it.

It's our new Marine Paint department.

You'll find it just inside the door of our store, 722 Main St. Maybe you've seen our nautical sign which proclaims: "Cap'n Doug's Marine Dept."

Doug Experienced

"Cap'n Doug", who is Douglas Delp, my assistant in the store, has also had a great deal of experience in the paint business.

Both of us being avid boat enthusiasts, we are keenly interested in this new marine department. If you're a boat owner, or one of the growing number of boating fans in this area, you'll probably be interested in what this new department has to offer.

First of all it features the complete line of Valspar Marine Finishes. There's a Valspar finish for every surface.

Pride of ownership, as you know, is boating's greatest pleasure. For example, the finish on hulls, complete when your craft reflects that pride in trim, ship-shape appearance that lasts through season after season.

This proper upkeep and protection will determine the life of your boat.

Proper upkeep can be made easier and your long-run costs lower if you start with the right finish.

Common Sense

Your boat represents a substantial investment. It is just common sense to protect that investment with the best care possible.

After all, the greatest cost in painting is not the paint required, but the labor (your own or paid professional) by which it is applied.

For example, the finish on hulls,

New Service Announced By Company

A NEW SERVICE for "do-it-yourself" enthusiasts is available here at D. Katz & Sons Plumbing & Heating Division, Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg.

Robert H. Collins, manager of the P. & H. Division, announced the Katz firm is offering complete packaged units for new homes. Everything is included in the plumbing and heating line for a complete do-it-yourself installation.

He said Katz also offers free engineering help and instructions so the new homeowner, who desires, can do the job himself. For others who desire, the Katz firm will handle the complete installation for them, he added.

Mr. Collins pointed out they are making available complete package units for bathroom, warm air heating systems and hot water unit installations.

Offer Repeated

In conjunction with this new service, D. Katz & Sons are again repeating their offer of a free triple-track aluminum combination screen and storm window with each plumbing and heating installation over $500.

"No matter what your plumbing and heating needs—private homes, motel, hotel or factory—we invite you to give us a call," Mr. Collins said.

He noted the Katz firm represents some of the leading manufacturers in the plumbing and heating field: National Air Oil Products, Koven, "packaged" forced hot water heating units, Gerber, Richmond and American-Standard bathroom fixtures and Plastex plastic pipe.

Scientific TV Service

BILL QUEENAN is owner of probably the most scientifically equipped television service center in the Stroudsburgs. Bill, who is a graduate of Temple University's School of Electronics, has been established at 750 Main St., Stroudsburg, for a good many years.

Many local folks are acquainted with William Queenan's guaranteed TV and radio repair service, and just in case you're not, he's the doctor to call in when your set begins acting up. Use of modern, scientific electronic testing devices assures you fast, efficient service and reasonable service charges.

Signal Depot Institutes New System

TOBYHANNA — Tobyhanna's Signal Depot instituted a new supply procedure which has reduced materially the time formerly required to supply the soldier in the field.

Col. Angster explained that the newly adopted procedure was just one of the many projects underway at the depot pointed towards providing the communications equipment in operating condition to the troops when and where they need it.

Stroudsburg To Feature Art Gallery This Summer

BEGINNING this Summer the Stroudsburgs will have their first art gallery.

A non-profit organization of local artists and art enthusiasts has been formed for that purpose.

Called "The Gallery Art Club," the group will open its gallery for the first time in June. Officers are Jesse Weiss, president; Morgan Hebard, treasurer, and Dorothy Strauser, secretary.

Space for the gallery has been donated by the Famous Department Store, owned and operated by Samuel Ellsweig at 33 S. Crystal St. in East Stroudsburg. The gallery will be located above the department store.

Purpose of the showplace is to provide an exhibition room in which local artists will be displayed to display their work. All artists in the community will be allowed to "show" at the gallery and need not be members of the club in order to do so, Weiss said.

Jury

All work shown will be submitted to a jury and passed on by that jury before it is placed on display, however. Work in all artistic media will be shown and the purpose of the club—and the gallery—is to allow as many persons as possible to take part in showing their work.

Memberships of two types will be available for those interested in joining the club, Weiss reported. The "full-membership" includes voting privileges in all matters pertaining to the club and the gallery and all the benefits of the club. An associate membership carries no voting privileges but entitles the holder to admission to at least two special demonstrations or lectures to be given at the gallery. Cost of the former will be $25; for the latter, $5, according to Weiss.

The club plans to have a series of special lectures on art during its three-month season. If present plans materialize, well-known artists from outside the area will be invited to speak at special sessions.

The gallery is to be operated during the three peak Summer months—June, July and August. A grand opening is tentatively planned for the first week in June, Weiss said.

Weiss and other officers emphasize that the club and gallery will be operated strictly on a "non-profit basis." The sole aim of the organization is to provide a permanent exhibition place for artists in the area—whether they hold membership or not.

Chess Club Holds Regular Weekly Meet

WEEKLY SESSION of the Stroudsburg Chess Club held last week at the office of President John M. Price was marked by the return of one of the members who had not been able to attend sessions for many months.

John Errison, formerly of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, now filling a teaching post in New York.

Price was first to engage Errison and was defeated in a long game. Errison then engaged William P. Deering, winning two games from his former Gloucester, Mass., fellow townsman.

Two Contests

Deering then took on Louis Mondelle and defeated the former Marine in two contests.

Mondelle found consolation in defeating Price in one game.

Meanwhile, Errison took on Frank Merwirth losing two games to the latter. Merwirth also defeated Lois Mondelle.

Harold James of Stroudsburg and A. J. Vlossak of Mount Pocono staged a one-night tournament of seven games, each man winning three games. James won the seventh and deciding contest.

Burke Overcomes 8-Stroke Deficit To Win Masters

Pitching, 2nd, Left Field Current Cavalier Sore Spots

PITCHING, SECOND BASE and right field are the current sore spots in the makeup of the 1956 East Stroudsburg High School baseball team.

The Cavaliers, defending PIAA District 11 champions and kingpins of the Lehigh-Northampton League last season, are basing their '56 pennant aspirations on veteran infield and outfield returns to carry the brunt of the attack.

(Editor's Note—Last of two articles on the baseball prospects at local high schools. Today's is on the prospects at East Stroudsburg High School.)

4-Year Veterans

With the likes of 4-year veterans Gene Plaza and Dick Gray available for a nucleus, Coach Jack Kist has the basis of a firm foundation for the '56 campaign.

However, it is on the hill that Kist will feel the need most for a more seasoned performer. Last year when the Cavaliers ran up a fine 11-2 record, Kist could count on his own pitching gang of Bill Sommers. But now that Bill has gone, Jack must come up with a replacement or two that will fill the bill.

While the outlook isn't exactly gloomy at East Stroudsburg, Kist would feel better if one or two of his hurling candidates turns out to be another Sommers.

Mount Aspirants

At the present, Roger Ray, a junior transfer student from Stroudsburg High, and Curt Hickman, a junior, and freshman Charley Lupien have the inside track for mound jobs. Ray and Lupien are lefthanders, while Hickman is a righthander.

The catching position is still a battle between sophomore Al Smith and freshman Bob Stine. Smith, although not a letterman, is a returnee from last year's championship squad.

PLAZA is a sure bet to hold down third base and his sidekick Gray is expected to fill the bill at shortstop.

Junior Bob Kassner and sophomore Dale Metzgar are the chief foes for the keystone berth, while converted pitcher Danny Marvin is leading the fight for the initial sack.

In the outfield, Kist has the veteran Tom Michaels ready for another year in center field and returnee Helmut Gartner available for right field work.

Left field, however, is wide open with a number of prospects battling for the vacancy.

Open Here Friday

The Cavaliers are scheduled to open up the 1956 campaign against a veteran-studded Easton High nine at Memorial Stadium Friday afternoon. Game time is 3:30 p.m.

The following week—Wednesday, April 18—Kist's protégés will entertain Port Jervis High at Memorial Stadium.

East Stroudsburg will start its Lehigh-Northampton League slate on April 24 against Hellertown on the Panthers field.

Pen Argyl Schedules 11 Diamond Tilts

PEN ARGYL—Pen Argyl High School's baseball team will face a 11-game schedule this season.

Coached by John Laky, the Green Wave's diamond aspirants will open the season Friday against Andy Leh's Nazareth High team on the Blue Eagles field.

The first home game for Pen Argyl is with Jerry Stulgatis' Stroudsburg High Mountaineers.

The tilt will be played at Weona Park, Tuesday, April 17, starting at 4 p.m.

Pen Argyl is an entry in the Lehigh-Northampton League.

The schedule: April 13, Nazareth, away; April 17, Stroudsburg, home; April 20, Bangor, home; April 24, Fountain Hill, away; April 27, Wilkes-Barre, home.

Experts covering the baseball training camp scene say almost to a man that Curt Simmons, the Philadelphia Phil, will never regain the touch which once stampeded him as one of the best pitchers in the National League.

Simmons, plagued by injuries ever since he leaped from the minors to the big top, is the same young man who pleased local fans with his athletic prowess in schoolboy sports only a few years back.

Rated Top Threats In Langhorne Race

LANGHORNE—Buck Baker, colorful taxi driver from Charlotte, N.C., will be gunning for his initial triumph when the 150 mile Grand National title event is presented at the Langhorne Speedway, April 22. Last season the 37-year old veteran finished a close second to National Champion Tim Flock.

Billy Myers, of Germantown, N.C., appears to be the most promising of the younger pilots currently engaged in NASCAR late model stock car racing. The former sportsman champion placed second in the "speed week" feature at Daytona and won the century classic at West Palm Beach, He, with the aid of his '56 Mercury, looms as one of the top threats in the April 22 event.

Packers Schedule 4 Milwaukee Tilts

GREEN BAY, Wis., April 8 (UPI)—The Green Bay Packers will play the Philadelphia Eagles in an exhibition and Baltimore, Los Angeles and Cleveland in National Football League games in Milwaukee this fall.

Montreal Notches 2nd Stanley Win

DETROIT (UPI)—Big Jean Beliveau swept his Montreal Canadiens to a 3 to 1 game margin in the Stanley Cup hockey final.

Ray Snyder, Kitchen Pace Shoot Firers

BANGOR—Ray Snyder, of East Stroudsburg, and Clarence Kitchen of Stroudsburg, grabbed off top honors in the riflemen's shoot of the Blue Mountain Rod and Gun Club on the unit's grounds here yesterday.

The shoot was marred by the death of Anthony Westbrook, of East Stroudsburg, who died of a heart attack while participating in the firing. He was leading the field with a perfect score when stricken.

Snyder took first place in the blue rock shoot by firing a 62 out of 75 score. Paul Ackerman, of Stroudsburg, came in second with a 56-75 count.

Blue Rock Trailers
Training were Clarence Kitchen with 40-50; Norman Transue, 35-50; and Charlie Frank, 32-50. All three marksmen are from Stroudsburg.

Next in line were Earl Bush, of Bangor, with 31-50 and Ed Diehl, East Stroudsburg, with 30-50.

Kitchen won top laurels in the miss and out contest.

Crowe's Close DVL Season In High Gear

CROWE'S Insurance of East Stroudsburg wound up the 1956 Delaware Valley Bowling League in blaze of glory by pounding out a 4-point win over Pappy's Central Lanes of Bethlehem Saturday.

Led by a trio of 600-plus keglers the Insurance rolled games of 1002, 1008 and 1026 for a fine 3036 total.

Leading Crowe's parade was John Javitt with 661. He was followed by Jack Darr's 613, Tommy Sommers' 603, Jake Nittel's 583 and Russell Bergman's 576.

Crowe's clinched the DVL seasonal crown several weeks ago.

The Poconos quintet will meet the champions of the Fleas Fraternal League of Easton in the opening of a three-match set at Farming's Recreation, East Stroudsburg, next Saturday night.

The second match is slated for the Fleas' alleys the following day.

It was announced that the annual banquet of the DVL will be held at the Tatamy Firehouse, Saturday, April 28.

ESSTC To Present Three-Act Comedy On Thursday, Friday

MASK and Zany Society of State Teachers College will present "Strange Boarders," a three-act comedy, Thursday and Friday nights of this week in the college auditorium.

All work on the play, other than the direction by Ralph

Smith, a faculty member, is done by students. For this year's first production students are making silk-screen posters to advertise the play. Some of the posters have already been placed in store windows throughout both boroughs.

Committee chairmen for the production are the following:

Art, Bernard Kolski; business, Carol Gruen, Mike Little; costumes, Carol Cuen, Mary McGroarty; furniture and decoration, Carol Perkins and Dick Hilliard; lighting, Gil Lutz and Bill Morgan; makeup, Barbara Garabrant; production assistants, Joanne Boyle; programs, Mary Ann Comilla; prompters, Eileen Benner.

Properties, Ronald Olivetti; publicity, Paul Peters, Marcia Sweeny; sound, Mac Whitenight; stage crew, Royal Johnson; tickets, Al Mendlovitz; typing, Irma Davis; ushers, Carol Mason; workshop, Sylvia Younkins and Dick Wagner.

Stage manager for the play is Jack Martin. Joy Swartley is the student director and Mac Whitenight designed the silk-screen poster.

Mr. Whitenight is the director of the play.

Stroudsburg High School Girl Seeks Future In Ballet Dancing

By Leonard Randolph

ONSTAGE At Stroud Union High School auditorium, the slight, shy-serious girl smoothed her ballerina costume as she stood in the flood of bright light from overhead.

She looked hesitantly at the side of the stage, waiting for music to begin. Then her doe-bright eyes closed briefly. The girl's name was Ursula Meinecke. She is 14 years old and she would like to be a dancer.

Until two years ago she had lived in Frankfurt, Germany. Then she had come to America with her family . . . and to Stroudsburg.

In Germany, Ursula Meinecke was hardly ever called by her given name. She was "Uta" to her friends, to the family, her teachers. Uta was a good student. And a sensitive one, apparently.

When Uta was nine years old her mother, whose name is Elinor, explained to her that she wanted her to have the advantage of dancing lessons or music—things Elinor had not had to a great degree in her childhood.

Uta went to the Staedtische Buhnen, the new opera house in Frankfurt. In this new, modern building, Uta began studying ballet with Herr Herbert Freund. She fell in love with dancing; continued studying until she came to this country.

Now here she was, on a bare auditorium stage in a huge, empty room waiting for the sound of music.

Uta had been asked to dance so a photograph could be taken. The request had been made by Alfred Munson, principal of the high school. Munson had seen the girl dance before, in an assembly program.

The girl had chosen a musical theme by Haydn for her first dance. It was music she had known for years. When the pickup needle hissed into the opening grooves of the record, Uta poised her body, head turned to the side of the stage where the phonograph sat. The music began.

In a fleeting instant the girl's immobile body seemed transformed by the flow of the music. Lightly but firmly she moved in perfect time with it, translating it into visual meaning. The record ended. Uta began dancing to another tune, a semi-popular song, faster and more rhythmic.

The girl stopped and moved effortlessly to the apron of the stage. In answer to questions she said she was interested in singing, too. But her greatest ambition was to dance. Every piece of music has a meaning, Uta said, her voice a little halting, searching for the right words. And when you dance you first have to understand the meaning and then you try to put it into motion—the balance of your body, the poise of your hands, the way you whirl on point or leap.

If you can convey what you feel about the music to the audience watching you, then you're a successful dancer. But you have to feel what the music says, emotionally and intellectually.

Could she improvise? Take a piece of music she hadn't heard and listen to it a little and then "make up" a dance as she went along? Uta said she wasn't sure how good it would be but she'd try.

The Moorish Ballet music from Verdi's "Aida" was put on the turntable. From the back of the stage, the small girl listened intently, ignoring the sound of voices outside. Then the record was stopped and started over again.

Uta waited a moment. Without apparent concentration, she picked up the rhythm of the music and began to dance again. As an improvisation, it was brilliant. Some of it seemed familiar, but the dance shifted and changed with the flickering tempo of the music. Every gesture and movement the girl made seemed to have a meaning, now obvious, now subtle.

More than anything else, when the dance was over, some one watching would be left with the inescapable sense that this was the basic material of a potentially great dancer.

Uta was right. The importance of music is in its meaning and the brilliance of ballet is in its ability to turn that meaning into visual beauty. A great dancer adds a dimension of his own, through self-expression.

Right now Uta Meinecke needs training. Under a good, advanced coach. She is the first to say that. And she wants it, desperately.

But in the field of expression, there is no doubt about one thing. Here Uta is already a success.

Accountants Hold Meeting In Easton

EASTON — Approximately 140 members of the Lehigh Valley Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants met last week at Hotel Easton. They were briefed on the economic evaluation of capital expenditures.

Guest speaker was John T. Garritt, an associate in the firm of McKinsey and Company, N. Y. Mr. Garritt discussed the essential features of a program any company should follow in reaching decisions on capital expenditures.

Observation

The chapter observed "New Members Night" with 23 members who joined the organization during the past year being guests of honor.

The next activity of the local group will be a trip by 50 members to Elmira, N. Y. The trip will be made by air on April 17. The schedule for the day will include a visitation to the air compressor plant of the Ingersoll Rand Co. and a tour of the Corning Glass Center in Corning, N. Y. At night the group will meet with the Elmira Chapter of NACA.

Monroe County members attending this meeting were: Russell Bainer, Mike Chaffier, Charles Lanterman and William Curnow.

An estimated 50,000 boys are in Scouting in those three counties, according to West. The new Resica reservation covers an area of more than 4,100 acres. In addition to Judge Davis, other prominent men and women from this area are being invited to attend the celebration.

Welcome

President Judge Fred W. Davis will officially represent Monroe County in welcoming Scouts and their parents from Philadelphia, Delaware and Montgomery counties.

The lectures will be held April 11, 18, 25 and May 2 from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. and a question and answer period will follow.

To become a teacher or nurse or a lawyer or to be capable in any field requires training. To become a husband or a wife or a parent is far more important a job than any profession. To enter marriage requires training also.

Berwick Votes Coal For New High School

After a lengthy discussion on the relative merits of coal and oil heat, the school board of Berwick, Pa., voted sixteen to one in favor of Anthracite (one member being absent) for the new high school building in that community.

The decision was made after the architect presented cost studies of the competitive fuels, $5,200 for Anthracite and $12,400 for oil. The question of heavy oil was dropped when reported scarcities of this fuel were canvassed, as well as the possibility of a rise in price.

Drake Wins Speaking Contest

KRESGEVILLE — A Pocono Mountains Area Future Farmers of America meeting was held at Poole High School here last week.

Stephen Drake, Stroudsburg FFA chapter member, won the public speaking contest conducted at the meeting. The Pen Argyl chapter team was named winner in the parliamentary procedure contest. The winners will represent this area at regional contests to be held in Tunkhannock on Monday, April 30.

In Charge

Ronald Smith, area president, was in charge of the meeting. Reports were heard from various committees. It was decided to award a pennant to the winner of the annual tractor driving contest which will be held at 4 p.m. on Monday, May 1 at Chestnut Hill Township School in Brodheadsville.

Lesoine Plans Talk On Taxes

JOHN R. Lesoine, Monroe County commissioner and trucking executive, will hold the spotlight tonight at the monthly meeting of the Manufacturers Association of Monroe County dinner and meeting at the Penn Stroud Hotel.

Mr. Lesoine, according to Joseph H. Small, association secretary, will tell about the tax situation in the county. He is expected, too, to outline how the county commissioners plan to tie in with flood control work in the county. Color slides of the August flood will be shown.

UN Secretary Opens Middle East Investigation

By J. M. Roberts
Associated Press News Analyst

Secretary General Hammarskjold is starting very gingerly on his investigation of what the United Nations can do to ease tensions in the Middle East.

At the same time, the State Department is calling home two ambassadors—Bohlen from Moscow and Wadsworth from Saudi Arabia—who can give it advice in different aspects of the problem.

They probably won't have much to say about it in public, since there is a tacit understanding that Hammarskjold is not to be hampered by third party activities during his mission.

Saudi Arabia is the one important Arab state which he apparently does not plan to visit, although his itinerary is not yet finally fixed. Wadsworth's views may give the department information to supplement the report Hammarskjold will make to the Security Council.

Chief interest in Bohlen's visit will center around the new Russian policy of downgrading Stalin and "competitive coexistence."

But he will certainly be asked for any information on Russian objectives in the Middle East. Russia is reported to have promised the Arab states enough arms to protect them against any Western intervention in their plains.

Directly

This ties in directly with British driving all other interests out of the area from the Arabian peninsula to the Atlantic.

Under these circumstances, Hammarskjold can hardly confine his investigation merely to the Arab-Israeli dispute, which is only one highly explosive part of the general situation.

He is starting out by getting himself briefed by U. N. experts on the ground before he confers with leaders of the various states to make a mere progress report at the end of a month.

He may have to speed it up.
